WARM WAVE CONTINUES
Washington Forecast Indicates
Slightly Cooler Weather
May Be On Way.

The highest temperature yesterday was 86 degrees, 7 degrees lower than the highest point reached Wednesday, but the increased humidity made the suffering much more intense. Three deaths and eight prostrations were reported. A thunderstorm, accompanied by a heavy downpour in most parts of the city, brought some relief between 6 and 7 o'clock.

James H. Scarr, forecaster for the local Weather Bureau, pointed out that, so far as bodily comfort is concerned, thermometers are not reliable instruments. The wet bulb system, which takes account of the humidity, is regarded as a far more sensible method of telling how hot it is. For example, at the top yesterday afternoon, which came at about 3 o'clock, this instrument registered 74 degrees, as compared with 73.9 degrees on Wednesday.

Forecast Is for Cooler.
Although the forecast from Washington indicated that today would be "generally fair and somewhat cooler," Mr. Scarr said that the warm wave is not necessarily ended. The temperature, he said, will depend upon whether it is cloudy or clear. Local thunderstorms, which are the principal chance of relief, are expected to-night and to-morrow, when it will be partly cloudy.

Here are the temperature and humidity from 6 o'clock yesterday morning, when the heat began its offensive:

James J. Gavigan, 50, of 580 Washington street was overcome by the heat and died in the Queensboro station of the Lexington avenue subway at Grand Central Station.

The other deaths were those of Walter Schreunberger, 2, of 115 Bushwick avenue, Brooklyn, and Catherine Carrick, 68 years old, of 158 Concord street, Brooklyn.

Eight Persons Prostrated.
Persons overcome by the heat included Ethel Gansler, 24, of 24 Mount Morris Park West; Anna Ray, 21, of 577 Wyckoff street, Brooklyn; Angelo Corone, 23, of 503 Henry street; William Dowell, 29, no home, who collapsed at 7 Wallabout street; Raymond Schuchman, 43, of 14 Pellington place, Brooklyn; Amelia Jones, 40, of 2014 Atlantic avenue, Brooklyn; Annie Brown, 17, of 474 Columbus avenue, and John Lindenthal, 72, of 255 Linden avenue, Brooklyn.

Electrical disturbances were reported over a large area during the afternoon. Lightning struck the barn of Frederick Hoth on the outskirts of Stamford, Conn., destroyed it and burned a horse to death.

Gov. Edwards of New Jersey approved the action of the World Zionist Organization, not issuing an order forbidding the issuance of all permits for making any kind of a fire in or near the forests of the State until a general rain has relieved the danger of forest fires. The woodlands of New Jersey are very dry, and even the burning of rubbish by campers is prohibited by this latest order.

The drought in New Jersey, according to a despatch from Hightstown, has burned up at least $500,000 worth of potatoes. The crop situation is said to be the worst in many years.

FAREWELL RECEPTION GIVEN TO WEIZMANN
Rain Prevents Parade in His Honor.

Dr. Chaim Weizmann, president of the World Zionist Organization, got an unusually enthusiastic reception yesterday and last night in the Bronx—so enthusiastic that a farewell reception to him at Carnegie Hall was interrupted by a demand that he go up to the Prospect Theatre at 183d street and Prospect avenue and address another meeting. He on New Jersey, according to a despatch from Hightstown, has burned up at least $500,000 worth of potatoes. The crop situation is said to be the worst in many years.

BAFF MURDER WITNESS ON TRIAL FOR PERJURY
Joseph Sorro Was Witness Against Joseph Cohen.

The trial of Joseph Sorro, who is charged with perjury in connection with testimony he gave in the Barnett Raff murder case, began before Judge McGuire and a jury in General Sessions yesterday.

Sorro appeared as a witness against Joseph Cohen, convicted of Raff's murder. Raff, who was a West Washington Market poultry dealer, was shot on Thanksgiving Day, 1914. Later, it is charged, Sorro recanted his testimony and followed this subsequently with a denial of the truth of his recantation.

Walter Rogers Deuel, who is himself under indictment charged with subornation of perjury in the Cohen trial, is conducting Sorro's defense. Assistant District Attorney Pecora is prosecuting it.

ICE CREAM AT $1 A GALLON
SWELLS TO $8 WITH 'FIZZ'
Cost of Making Sodas Has Advanced 700 Per Cent.
Since 1914, Say Dealers, Defending High Prices.

Ten cent ice cream sodas are not coming back, at least not right away. Retail ice cream dealers agreed yesterday that reports to that effect have been greatly exaggerated. They told Mrs. Louis Reed Weizmann, Deputy Markets Commissioner, that the "overhead" is too high.

A conference was held in the Department of Markets by representatives of the Liggett-Ricker-Hegeman Company, the National Drug Company, Internam Ice Cream Company, Schmidt Confectionery Company, Miller Candy Company and other soda water dispensers. They admitted that the wholesale price of ice cream is down to $1.10 to $1.30 a gallon and that at 15 cents a soda or plate it costs the customer $8 to $10 a gallon, not including 80 cents to $1 a tax, which the customer pays. They also admitted that the hot spell had not hurt their business.

Wages, rent and materials, however, are still sky high, the soda water men said, and they cannot see how they can possibly cut the price of the goods they sell. A. S. G. Interman said labor in his business was 700 per cent. above 1914 figures.

Mrs. Weizmann said she was disappointed but not hopeless and had written to the Senate and House committees for a hearing to be held against the 10 per cent. luxury tax on ice cream, so even if the drug stores will not return to the old scale the Government may decide to knock off the extra penny.

CHEW CAUSES STIR OVER WIFE'S TEETH
Captain on Trial Nearly Breaks
Up Court-Martial With Torrent of Abuse.

The question of whether Mrs. Beverly Grayson Chew, wife of the army captain on trial at Governors Island on a charge of forgery and other offenses, has good teeth and regular, or poor and irregular teeth nearly disrupted the court-martial yesterday. Capt. Chew jumped to his feet when Mrs. Chew was asked to show her teeth to the court, and declaring she should not do it, launched into a torrent of abuse of the court and its methods that continued until the court was cleared and he was quieted.

William E. Leahy, Capt. Chew's civilian counsel, said he would show that the woman with whom Capt. Chew was seen in Washington and in whose company he opened accounts and cashed checks here as "Capt. Spaulding" was not Mrs. Chew, but a woman who resembled her. Witnesses had testified that the "Mrs. Chew" of the escapades had poor teeth. Mrs. Chew finally proved that hers are good.

Mr. Leahy also said that he would show that Capt. Chew had been under a great deal of stress and strain, and that he was wounded in the arm and has a deep cleft in his skull. It is alleged that he is irresponsible as a result of his experiences.

Several of the prosecution's witnesses were recalled yesterday and testified that the real Mrs. Chew looked much less like photographs of the woman they had seen in New York and Washington than the alleged bogus Mrs. Chew did. Mrs. Chew's chauffeur was arrested for having a smoking automobile while she was on her way to court and she had to pay a $5 fine before she could proceed.

SIX PERSONS INJURED WHEN MOTORS CRASH
Man Run Down and Killed by Car in Brooklyn.

Six persons were injured last night at Hackensack, N. J., when an automobile operated by Harry A. Chandelers of 239 Wallabout street, Brooklyn, crashed into a motorcade in Essex street, near the Hackensack Hospital. Chandelers, who escaped injury, is held without bail until the extent of the injuries can be learned.

In the side car of the motorcycle were Helen and Aida Johnson, both of South Orange. Turro, a 24-year-old man, suffered a broken leg. Both his passengers were badly injured. The passengers in the automobile were cut and bruised, but were able to go home after they were given medical attention.

A man believed to be W. A. Cupes was run down and killed yesterday at Fifth avenue and Thirty-ninth street, Brooklyn. Mrs. Catherine McDonald of 291 Nostrand avenue was taken to Cumberland Hospital with a possible fracture of the skull. Drivers of both cars escaped.

Before Judge Rosalsky in General Sessions yesterday was started the trial of Detective Henry J. Coleman of the West 135th street station, charged with assaulting Henry Jaffie, a chauffeur, in the Vermont Restaurant, Eighth avenue and 125th street, on June 6 and causing him to lose the sight of an eye. Witnesses failed to agree on the facts of the alleged attack.

Jaffie testified that Coleman came to the table where he was dining and struck him a violent blow with the handle of an umbrella. He said that the restaurant, he said, the detective struck him again and finished the beating with a blow on the back of the head half a block from the restaurant. Louis Lyons, a salesman, said he saw no blow struck in the restaurant. Jaffie's brother said a punch with the end of the umbrella struck the chauffeur in the eye.

War gas, smoke screens, hand grenades and other up to date methods of warfare were demonstrated yesterday by the Sixty-ninth Regiment, in camp at Peekskill, for the benefit of Gov. Nathan L. Miller and staff, who later reviewed the regiment. The military show, which was staged by Col. John J. Phelan and the members of Brig.-Gen. James Lester's staff at division headquarters, pleased the Governor greatly. He praised the appearance and work of the regiment in an address to its officers.

Mrs. Miller and three of their daughters were in the Governor's party.

Greene had cleaned and oiled a .38 caliber revolver, then reloaded it and placed it on a table. The child picked up the weapon and discharged it. The bullet struck Greene in the abdomen, puncturing the intestines.

VARIOLTA SUSPECT HELD DUE TO THREAT
Vincenzo Troia Arrested When He Calls Upon Brother Already in the Tombs.

NEW LETTER RECEIVED
Father of Slain Boy and Detective Warned Their Lives
Are in Danger.

Because Vincenzo Troia of 615 East Fourteenth street is alleged to have made a threat more than a year ago against Salvatore Variotta he was arrested yesterday and held as a material witness in the kidnapping and murder of Giuseppe Variotta, the 5-year-old son, whose body was found floating in the Hudson River near Piermont on June 11.

The father of the slain boy received a letter yesterday threatening his life and also that of Detective-Sergeant Michael Flascetti, head of the Italian Squad, who is in charge of the investigation and whose life has been threatened several times since the kidnapping by members of the Black Hand.

Troia's brother Salvatore was arrested recently and is awaiting hearing on a charge of having two loaded revolvers in his possession. Detectives Induced Salvatore to send for his brother to visit him in the Tombs, and when Vincenzo called he was arrested by Detective Flascetti.

Threat Due to Business.
It is alleged that Vincenzo made a threat against Variotta in the course of a disagreement over a business transaction. About fifteen months ago Variotta volunteered to aid Troia, who was then out of work, and whose wife was in a hospital.

The two men, with another Italian, raised $100 and established an automobile repair shop at 604 East Sixteenth street. The first week's business amounted to $28, which came into the possession of Troia, a part of which Variotta demanded as his share in the profits.

Troia refused to give up any of the money, and it is said chased Variotta out of the shop, and would have assaulted him had it not been for the intervention of the police. Variotta then broke up the partnership, but was unable from time to time to get back the money he had invested. The last time Variotta endeavored to obtain the investment Troia threatened, "You'll pay for this some time."

Protests His Innocence.
This alleged threat, together with the discovery of Vincenzo's office, immediately after the kidnapping of Variotta's little son, resulted in the arrest of Troia, who when taken into custody protested his innocence of any connection with the crime.

The threatening letter received by Variotta was written on dirty brown paper, mailed from Post Office station 33 early yesterday and was signed "Black Hand." It was written in Italian and translated reads:

"Beware. You did not put up the money. We will kill you like we killed your brother. If you do not put up the money we will throw the boy overboard. Some day he will get what you are going to get. Goodbye. You may cry because you may get the worst."

LINER SPEEDING HERE TO SAVE ROBERT DEANS
Stricken With Appendicitis, Is Transferred at Sea.

The Orbita of the Royal Mail Steam Packet Line is heading for port with more than her usual speed with Robert Deans of 1000 Park avenue seriously ill with appendicitis. Deans, who was transferred to the Orbita in mid-afternoon, will be rushed to a hospital by ambulance when the liner docks this morning.

Young Deans, who is a Yale man of the class of 1918, shipped as supercargo on the United States Shipping Board vessel Indiana Bridge, operated by the Seeger Steamship Company, from New York to Philadelphia. He was returning on her from Danzig when stricken with an attack of acute appendicitis. The Indiana Bridge wired for aid and the Orbita responded.

The sick man was transferred to the liner on June 18.

A wireless message from Dr. F. Cardo, Brooklyn, surgeon on the Orbita, stated that he was not operating in the hope that the disease can be retarded until this port is reached. The father and mother of the boy will be at pier 42 with an ambulance from the Presbyterian Hospital when the Orbita docks about 9:30 o'clock.

Mr. Deans's father, formerly was president of the Phoenixville Iron Works at Phoenixville, Pa.

LEGLESS BEGGAR GIVES TWO COPS HARD FIGHT
Puts One on His Back in Forty-second Street.

When Detectives Plagge and Halstead of the mendicant squad started yesterday to arrest William Steward, a negro, 23 years old, in Forty-second street they found that a man who is legless and homeless is not necessarily defenseless. Steward, who is known as "Plagge," threw him to the sidewalk and began to bite him. Plagge was getting the worst of it when Halstead mixed in and both officers were busy for a few minutes.

Magistrate Simms in Jefferson Market Court held the negro in $1,000 bail for the Grand Jury, charged with felonious assault.

'WHITE WINGS' PARADE; TOO HOT FOR MAYOR
Snow Ploughs Most Attractive
Feature in Line.

Because of the heat Mayor John F. Hylan yesterday passed up the honor of marching down Fifth avenue at the head of the annual parade of the Department of Street Cleaning. Instead, the Mayor went directly to the reviewing stand at Fifth avenue and Twenty-sixth street. The White Wings, three regiments strong, with much of the department's mechanical equipment, marched from Fifty-seventh street down to Tenth street, where the parade disbanded.

What attracted the most attention from the sweltering crowd in line was the exhibit of snow ploughs and snow removal tractors.

The store with mezzanine and basement at 409 Fifth avenue, directly across the street from Tiffany's, has been leased to Louis K. Liggett Company for a long term at an aggregate rental of approximately $1,200,000.

The Liggett Company will take possession August 1, after extensive alterations have been made, and will open a drug store. The leasing of this store disposes of all the space formerly occupied at that corner by the Columbia Grafonola Shop until last April 1.

Frank M. Widner, Jr., was the broker who conducted the negotiations for the lease.

He Does His Duty Who

his own business minds and he seldom fails of fair success. If he idles away time with gossipers, gaming, novel-reading or absences from his post with holidays and ball games, all unconsciously to himself something within him changes and he grows to care less for the thing he started out to do. Soon his mind gets off his enterprise, and he begins to read tempting advertisements of "partners wanted" and such like, more or less speculative.

Better far for him to get right with himself and go at his job assisted by the clear mind of his mother or wife, and the strength and determination of an ox such as Daniel Webster owned and loved to look at as an example of strength and perseverance.

FAMOUS CONVICT SHIP SUCCESS ARRIVES
Public Exhibition of Old Time
Horrors To-morrow.

The famous old British convict ship Success has arrived in New York on her second visit since she was built in 1780 and is lying alongside the West 130th street ferry. The vessel is in command of Capt. D. H. Smith, whose crew of twenty-one includes most of the men who brought her across the Atlantic in ninety-six days in 1812.

Public exhibition of the interior of the Success will begin to-morrow. There are the stinks, dungeons, condemned cells, whipping posts, manacles, branding irons, leaden tipped cat-o'-nine tails, the coffin bath and the other usages which belonged to the sea in a more unregenerated age.

The Success was scuttled in Sydney Harbor in 1885, but was raised five years later and has since been exhibited to more than 15,000,000 people.

Occasional Chairs

which have a thousand uses that chairs in sets cannot hope to have. BELMAISON, our bureau of Interior Decorating, has reproduced and adapted from old models a group of occasional chairs that are at once more unusual and more adaptable than chairs in sets. Although various in form, line and tone, they are so harmonious and so well bred in themselves, that any one of them makes a charming accent in the country house. From $17 to $75.

The chair illustrated is cane-seated, of painted wood in grotto blue with carved ornaments in gold. Its lovely deeply curved back offers exactly the right support when one is at a card table or a writing desk. This chair adds an arresting and agreeable note of contrast in a living-room or a boudoir.

Little Spanish walnut chairs with mulberry linen upholstered seats are ornate in their carved low backs, but very dainty in effect.
